what you'll learn

The goals of the Liberal Arts program are to provide advanced Spanish language students an opportunity to significantly improve their Spanish language skills in a local context through specially designed Spanish language courses, while gaining a critical appreciation of the Dominican Republic and the Caribbean from a social science perspective. These goals are achieved through coursework and the opportunity to work in a structured internship, along with non-credit volunteer opportunities, cultural activities, and the chance to live with a Dominican family.

thoughts from abroad

El programa de CIEE en Santo Domingo está vinculado institucionalmente a la Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales. El programa está diseñado para estudiantes del área de ciencias sociales y humanidades con un alto nivel de español con el objetivo de profundizar los conocimientos de los y las estudiantes sobre el Caribe y la realidad dominicana, facilitar una experiencia intercultural y desarrollar las potencialidades en un marco de una sociedad en vías de desarrollo, con los retos que ello implica.

Los y las estudiantes pueden seleccionar asignaturas en las diferentes universidades e instituciones de educación superior, según sus necesidades y preferencias al lado de estudiantes dominicanos permitiendo una inmersión total en la cultura universitaria dominicana. Además de sus clases, los y las estudiantes viven con una familia dominicana y pueden realizar una pasantía en ONG's que trabajan directamente en comunidades y barrios populares. La pasantía sirve como actividad de aprendizaje, apoyo a las comunidades y promueve una mayor integración de los y las estudiantes al medio dominicano.

— María Filomena Gonzalez, Resident Director

About the Resident Director

María Filomena González earned her B.A. from the Universidad Autónoma de Santo Domingo and her M.A. in Latin American Studies from the Universidad Nacional Autónoma-Mexico City. She has worked in her current position since 1999, taught history courses at the Universidad Autónoma de Santo Domingo since 1979 and El Bonó since 1992, among other Dominican universities. She has written history textbooks for the primary and secondary school systems in the Dominican Republic as well as adapted the social science curriculum for the large Dominican community in the Sixth School District in New York City. Her academic focus is early 20th century Dominican history, and she has conducted oral history research on the rural struggle against the first North American military occupation in the Dominican Republic.

About Other CIEE Staff

Robin Young, Resident Coordinator and Internship Coordinator, is a native Californian and a past participant of the CIEE Study Center in Santo Domingo. She earned her M.B.A. from Florida International University and her B.A. in Sociology/ Anthropology and Hispanic Studies from Lewis and Clark College, with a minor in Ethnic Studies. She moved to the Dominican Republic in 2007 to research domestic violence under a Fulbright Fellowship Grant. She has focused on gender issues and oppression theories in Santo Domingo, California, and Oregon. Robin works closely with students in their internship placements, cultural adaptation, and assists the Resident Director.

Administrative support staff includes Héctor López, Student Coordinator; Tagoris Luciano, Housing, Health, and Excursions Coordinator; Mayra Rodríguez, Spanish Language Coordinator; and Yasmilda Vidal, Administrative Assistant.

about santo domingo

Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, is located on the southern coast of the island. With a population of 2,000,000, it is considered to be the main economic and political center of the country. The city, often called the "First City of the New World," is steeped in historical significance. There are numerous plazas and churches throughout the colonial district, which give a distinct flavor to the city. Santo Domingo is divided by a river, the Río Ozama, and is close to many beaches.

Academic Program

Established in 1998, the CIEE Study Center in Santo Domingo gives students the opportunity to enroll in classes at Instituto Filosófico Pedro Francisco Bonó (El Bonó), Universidad Autónoma de Santo Domingo (UASD), and Instituto Tecnológico de Santo Domingo (INTEC). In addition, the CIEE Study Center offers specially designed courses for CIEE students in Spanish language and cultural, literary, artistic, political, and social aspects of the Dominican Republic and the Caribbean as a whole. Students generally enroll in one Spanish language course and a variety of content courses, at the program's host institutions. This arrangement permits students to combine CIEE courses offered through INTEC, UASD, and El Bonó.

The program is suitable for advanced undergraduate students with strong language skills and a background in the social sciences or in Latin American studies.

The CIEE Study Center is housed in an elegant home in the Gazcue neighborhood of Santo Domingo. It provides a safe and beautiful space for students to study, share experiences, and gather for program and cultural activities. The new facility boasts large classrooms and plenty of office space, ample study spaces, a computer lab, and several outside terraces and lawns.

Academic Culture

Dominican universities differ from universities and colleges in the United States. Direct enrollment in Dominican universities is one of the richest opportunities for academic learning, for immersing oneself in the language, for meeting Dominicans, and for learning about Dominican culture and society. However, it also requires adapting to a more formal academic culture and dealing with limited or hard-to-find materials.

CIEE students enrolling at INTEC can choose classes from the Faculties of Social Sciences and Humanities, of Business and Natural Sciences. Classes range in size from 30 to 40.

Most of the 100 students at El Bonó are young men studying philosophy on scholarship as part of their training to become priests. The classes are small (20–30) and lecture-based.

The UASD, a large public university, has an undergraduate population of 160,000 on its main campus in Santo Domingo. Classes tend to be very large and may vary from department to department.

At CIEE, class content and structure is closer to U.S. universities, and that the atmosphere is more intimate. A tutor is available at CIEE to assist participants.

Post-graduate classes in the social sciences at FLACSO are available to CIEE students when they are offered. FLACSO is a small graduate-level think-tank educational institution and is the CIEE academic host in Santo Domingo.

At each institution, students can expect three to four contact hours per week for each class and should dedicate an hour of preparation for each hour of class.

Students are expected to rely on the advice of the Resident Director for their final course registrations during orientation, and any communication with home institutions is the responsibility of the student. The add/drop period varies from institution to institution. Students need to keep track of each institution's deadlines when course selections become final. There is a three-week break between the spring and fall semesters.

Nature of Classes

CIEE courses are for CIEE participants only. At INTEC, UASD, and El Bonó, participants enroll directly in host university courses and take classes with Dominicans.

CIEE Community Language Commitment

Students take part in the CIEE Community Language Commitment by speaking Spanish at all times (except in emergencies). This fosters a learning community that contributes to both Spanish language proficiency and understanding of Dominican society.

Grading System

Letter grades of A, B, C, and F are given without pluses or minuses. Students are assessed based on a combination of mid-term and final exams, papers, oral presentations, and small quizzes. Attendance is mandatory and incompletes are not accepted.

The UASD takes up to three months to send grades to CIEE after the semester has ended. The student's home institution receives the transcript up to three months later. Graduating seniors or others concerned about the timing of receiving grades should be aware of this and carefully consider whether to take classes at the UASD.

where you'll study

The CIEE program is hosted by the Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales (FLACSO). Through FLACSO, CIEE students are eligible to take selected courses from the nationally recognized Instituto Tecnológico de Santo Domingo (INTEC), Universidad Autónoma de Santo Domingo (UASD), and the Instituto Filosófico Pedro Francisco Bono (El Bonó). See the host institutions box on the next page for more information.

Housing and Meals

Students live in Dominican homestays in middle-class neighborhoods throughout Santo Domingo. Housing and meals are included in the program fee. (All students receive three meals per day with their host family.) Weekly laundry service is also provided.

Online Pre-Departure and On-Site Orientations

Students begin their study abroad experience in Santo Domingo before leaving home—by participating in a CIEE Online Pre-Departure Orientation. Meeting with students online, the Resident Director shares information about the program and site, highlighting issues that alumni have said are important, and giving students time to ask questions before leaving home. The online orientation allows students to connect with others in the group, reflect on what they want to get out of the program, and learn what others in the group would like to accomplish. The CIEE goal for the pre-departure orientation is simple: to help students understand more about the program and site, as well as their goals for the program, so that they arrive to the program well-informed and return home having made significant progress toward their goals.

The program begins with a mandatory one-week orientation on site that introduces students to the culture of the Dominican Republic and the academic program, and provides practical information about living in Santo Domingo. During the orientation, students receive academic advising and instructions for registration in classes at the universities to ensure the most appropriate course selection. Students are aided by peer counselors and are given information about local activities with Dominicans. Ongoing support is provided on an individual and group basis throughout the program.

Internet

CIEE has a limited number of computers available to students for academic purposes and has wireless Internet access at the CIEE Study Center office. In addition, there are numerous Internet cafés in Santo Domingo that CIEE participants can use for checking personal email, so it is recommended that students bring a wireless-enabled laptop.

Cultural Activities and Field Trips

Each semester, two overnight excursions of cultural, ecological, and/or historical interest are taken. Educational excursions in the past have included an overnight to Caño Hondo in Los Haitises National Park to observe humpback whales; to Jarabacoa to visit the Mirabal Sisters Museum; and to the stunning new Centro León cultural center in the northern city of Santiago.

A trip to a market along the Dominican/Haitian border is also included as part of the coursework. One-day excursions are also offered to national heritage sites, such as a colonial sugar mill; a religious syncretic altar; and caves with Taíno pictographs. Cultural activities in the city have included theater performances, classical music concerts, and visits to museums and baseball games.

Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales

FLACSO is linked to other research and teaching centers throughout Latin America and was founded by UNESCO, the UN agency dedicated to education, culture, and science. Its internationally known faculty members are also associated with various other universities in Santo Domingo. The beautiful new CIEE Study Center is located in the same neighborhood as FLACSO. Classes offered specially to CIEE students are held at the Study Center. The opportunity to enroll in more than one Dominican university is quite unique and provides insight into the diversity of the Dominican educational system.

Instituto Filosófico Pedro Francisco Bonó (El Bonó)—El Bonó is a small Jesuit institute of higher learning specializing in philosophy and social sciences.

Instituto Tecnológico de Santo Domingo (INTEC)—INTEC is a private university founded by a group of professionals and businessmen in the 1980s to promote academic excellence in the areas of social sciences, humanities, medicine, business, and engineering.

Universidad Autónoma de Santo Domingo (UASD)—With 160,000 students, UASD is the largest university in the Dominican Republic—and is the oldest, founded in 1538. This public university offers CIEE students courses in the humanities and social sciences.

This course is divided into both a theoretical approach consisting of various activities and practical field service experience. The theoretical portion is organized around a concurrent series of academic sessions analyzing themes of social-cultural change, the characteristics and role of NGOs in the Dominican Republic, and exploration of challenges facing contemporary Dominican society. The practical portion is based on required field service at a local grassroots development agency. All internships are monitored, and the final grade is based on a detailed job evaluation as well as other criteria.

For those students who have an interest in focusing their academic studies on the Caribbean region, the CIEE Study Center offers participants an opportunity to pursue a Caribbean Studies track of study. Students who pursue this track must enroll in the required core course taught at CIEE, Social and Ethno-Cultural Identity of the Contemporary Caribbean; up to two elective courses taught at CIEE; and up to three elective courses at CIEE-affiliated universities in Santo Domingo. These latter courses must focus on the Dominican Republic or the Caribbean region.

Program Requirements

All students take a total of five courses. Based upon the results of a Spanish language exam, students may be required to take Advanced Spanish I or II, or to enroll in the Language and Culture in the Dominican Republic course. Students who are required to take Spanish may take up to two additional CIEE courses and two direct enrollment courses at El Bonó, UASD, or INTEC. Those students not required to take Spanish may enroll in a maximum of two CIEE courses and three direct enrollment courses at El Bonó, UASD, or INTEC. Students choosing the Caribbean Studies Track may take up to three CIEE courses, including the Social and Ethnocultural Identity of the Contemporary Caribbean and Spanish language (if required based on language exam), and up to three elective courses through direct enrollment at El Bonó, UASD, or INTEC, for a total of five courses. All students may take the Seminar on Living and Learning, regardless of their other course enrollment. Students are not permitted to take more than two courses at UASD.

Credit

All students must enroll for a minimum of 15 U.S. semester hours. Recommended credit for the semester is 15–17 semester/22.5–25.5 quarter hours. Recommended credit for the academic year is 30–32 semester/45–48 quarter hours.

Contact hours are 45 hours and recommended credit is 3 semester/4.5 quarter hours, unless otherwise indicated.

CIEE Courses

The following are special courses developed specifically for CIEE students.

Humanities and Social Sciences

ANTH 3001 SDDR

Social and Ethnocultural Identity of the Contemporary Caribbean (required core course for Caribbean Studies track)

This course deconstructs the idea of the Caribbean as a subject, through the critical study of and reflection on the disciplines and texts that traditionally have been used to address this theme. It is explored by looking at the myths, sensibilities, and assumptions generated by aspects of the intellectual canon responsible for generating the notion of the “modern Caribbean.”

INDR 3001 SDDR

Directed Independent Research

CIEE supports qualified students who wish to pursue an academically rigorous independent research project while in Santo Domingo. Interested students must submit a research proposal including a clearly defined research topic, an explanation of research plans, a description of preparation in the planned area of study, a list of resources, a tentative outline of a final paper and suggested schedule of progress. Students complete a total of 135 hours of research and meet regularly with an advisor to complete an academically rigorous, ethically sound, and culturally appropriate research project and final paper. Approval for participation in Directed Independent Research must be obtained from the Resident Director and the student's home institution prior to arrival on the program. This opportunity is limited to the area of social sciences and/or certain themes of religion, particularly related to the Hispanic Caribbean region.

INRE 3001 SDDR

Dominican-Haitian Relations

This course provides an introduction to the topic of Dominican-Haitian relations, examining its historical dimensions, as well as the structural realities of both societies along with political and cultural factors that have influenced the relations between both nations. Students come to understand the diverse factors that explain the complex relationship between the two neighboring countries.

INSH 3100 SDDR

Development Internship

This course is divided into a practical field service experience and a theoretical approach consisting of various activities. The theoretical portion is organized around a concurrent series of academic sessions analyzing themes of social-cultural change, the characteristics and role of NGOs in the Dominican Republic, and exploration of challenges facing contemporary Dominican society. The practical portion is based on required field service at a local grassroots development agency. All internships are monitored, and the final grade is based on a detailed job evaluation as well as other criteria.

Students must complete 72 contact hours in the internship placement, attend all concurrent academic sessions (30 hours), maintain a weekly journal, attend weekly meetings with the internship coordinator, and write a final research paper on a topic related to their internship site for which they work with an assigned tutor during the semester. At the end of the course, students give an oral presentation to their peers.

Spanish Literature and Language

All students take a language placement exam upon arrival. Based on the results, students are placed in Advanced Spanish I, II, or in the Language and Culture in the Dominican Republic course.

LAST 3100 SDDR

Language and Culture in the Dominican Republic

This course provides participants with the opportunity to learn more about Dominican culture in its different manifestations, including language, religion, folklore, arts, and literature. By studying such topics, students also improve their oral and written Spanish language skills. Students are graded on participation, short essays, and oral presentations in class. Also included are several academically relevant outings. Contact hours: 60. Recommended credit: 3 semester/4.5 quarter hours.

LITT 3002 SDDR

Authors of the Hispanic Caribbean

Students read and discuss the works of some of the best known authors of the Hispanic Caribbean, as well as works from lesser known authors. Why some Hispanic Caribbean authors have become more known internationally than others is among the themes discussed. All text is read critically and analytically, with special attention given to the historical and social context, and the way(s) in which the author reflects or ignores these realities.

SPAN 3003 SDDRAdvanced Spanish I

The purpose of this course is to improve linguistic competencies in comprehension, oral, and written expression in the Spanish language, and in particular, the subtle variations in Dominican modes and how certain linguistic forms are used in various socio-cultural contexts. Focus is on the use of complementary pronouns and the correlation of verb tense in formal and informal communication. Contact hours: 60. Recommended credit: 3 semester/4.5 quarter hours.

SPAN 3004 SDDRAdvanced Spanish II

The purpose of this course is to improve linguistic competencies in comprehension, oral, and written expression in the Spanish language, and in particular, the subtle variations in Dominican modes and how certain linguistic forms are used in various socio-cultural contexts. Focus is on the use of distinct linguistic constructions that communicate subjectivity. Students gain an understanding of how to communicate circumstantial relations between ideas and actual events. Contact hours: 60. Recommended credit: 3 semester/4.5 quarter hours.

CIEE Elective CourseCLST 3001 SDDR*Seminar on Living and Learning in Santo Domingo

The CIEE Seminar on Living and Learning in Santo Domingo is designed to improve students' intercultural communication and competence while studying abroad by considering how Dominicans are different from and similar to themselves and others. The course offers opportunities, both in and outside the classroom, to develop insights and the skills necessary to interact effectively and appropriately, and to gain a better understanding and appreciation of the cultural richness of the Dominican Republic. Contact hours: 25. Recommended credit: 2 semester/3 quarter hours. Instructors: Robin Young, CIEE Resident Coordinator and Maria F. Gonzalez, CIEE Resident Director.

a student's story

My experience in the Dominican Republic cannot be easily summed up in a short answer. When I respond I'll want to explain that I miss dancing merengue and bachata, eating empanadas, 50 peso movie nights, pickup basketball games at Centro Olímpico, seeing a beat up guagua with shiny spinning rims, and a family of four all riding on one motorcycle—and of course, the delicious tostones my doña always made me.

Reflecting back, there are numerous things I have learned, and probably could have only learned from living in this country. Returning back home I will likely notice a strange silence. I imagine I'll be confused. I'll listen for the familiar sounds of the roosters, the neighbor's baby, and the avocado man and wonder why car stereos blasting reggaeton and car alarms didn't wake me up in the middle of the night. I'll feel unloved walking in the streets without receiving marriage proposals and watching law-abiding drivers who actually stop. And red lights will puzzle me. I will miss the crowds, the noises, the smells, but most of all, the warmth of the Dominicans and the richness of their culture.
